MAINTENANCE INSTRUCTIONS

RATTAN

Dust rattan regularly with a soft cloth or brush or vacuum the piece with the brush attachment of a vacuum cleaner. A soft bristled toothbrush is ideal for those hard-to-get places. Periodically wipe it down with a soft damp cloth followed by a light application of a good furniture polish for sheen and protection.

If your wicker has become badly soiled, use water and a mild soap solution, rinse and let dry followed by a coat of natural lacquer.

For the best maintenance of the product, natural rattan furniture should be stored in dry conditions as it is organic material. Prolonged dampness can lead to mold. When left outside, and if the furniture becomes wet, leave to dry. Natural rattan furniture is not made for full outdoor use.

UPHOLSTERY

To clean upholstered surfaces, first try to brush off the dirt gently. If this is not sufficient, vacuum the surface. If vacuuming does not provide desired results, use water and colorless dish soap with a clean cloth, blotting the stain gently.

If further cleaning is needed, using a stain remover is recommended. The cleaning product used should be gentle and should always be tested on the least visible area of the upholstery before use. Avoid blotches by using gentle, circular rubbing movements on the stained surface.

Do not use the following products for the upholstery:

- Undiluted cleaning liquids
- Bleach
- Ammoniac

For further cleaning guidance, refer to information regarding the specific textile.
